Wall Street. Mospar, April 17.—6 P. M. 5
The market opened where it left off on Saturday, and prices followed seriatim like a feuilleton in a French newspaper which is promised "to be continued in our next." For the first half hour things were as thoroughly mixed as the fragrant rappee of an old time Scottah laird, and were productive of a sternutative affect on both bulls and bears. Shortly afterward the productive of the sternutative affect on both bulls and bears are downward, which was whole markes experienced a set downward, which was shown in the decline of Western Union from 66% to 66; Lake Shore from 56% to 55%; Pacific Mail from 20% to 1914; Michigan Central from 58% to 55; and Eric from 15% to 15%.

These composed the opening and closing prices of the day, but by no means the highest, which latter were obtained about noonday under what, in these dull times, might be described as a decidedly active narket. This change was brought about by the imvulse given to Western Union by a sharp demand for occount of the great Gambling act pleader. Jay Gould may possibly be "a nice young man for a small party," but he evidently does not fancy a crowd. Largely short of Western Union he discovered the existence of too much company holding the same opinion as himself, and took the summary process of getting rid of his followers by smartly bidding up the stock, and thus compelling them to cover. The small bears hav-ing thus been sent to the right-about with claws ing thus been sent to the right-about with claws clipped and teeth filed, the upward movement hesitated, and eventually drooped back half a point or so. The effect of the transaction, however, had been to force the price upward from 68 to 67%, from which latter figure it fell back to 65%, at which it closed. While the general opinion on 'Change is hostile to Western Union there are many firm believers in its satisfactory nature. This statement is in turn met by the assertion that the company has discontinued in a great measure the construction of further lines and that the general system of poles and wires is suffering from a want of proper repair and maintenance in order that a favorable showing may be made when the proper time calls for it. It is to be hoped that the next report of the corporation will show how much money has been piaced to the credit of earnings that should properly be charged to the debit of expense account.

The course of the telegraph stock seemed to give the keynote to the rest of the market, which followed it, as does an orchestra the baton of its leader. There was roughing in the internal condition of the railroad shares. eneral system of poles and wires is suffering from a the opening price. It seemed simply to have been favored by the same slant of wind which was affecting the rest of the market, for there was nothing here to influence it pro or con, and official prices from the other side were wanting under the close Easter Monday
